kids that young and their families get psychological counselling and are monitored until the first signs of puberty emerge, usually around age 11 or 12.